

For Parents

- School meals matter! The school day just got healthier thanks to new school breakfast and lunch meal standards. Encourage your child to check out these new meals and find their favorites.
- The new school meals focus on more whole grains, fruits, and vegetables; low-fat or non-fat milk; and less sodium and fat.
- Teachers will tell you that wellnourished kids are ready to learn and do better in class. When we give kids plenty of healthy food choices and regular physical activity at school, they learn healthier habits for life.
- Nutritious meals and snacks will help kids stay healthy, reducing their risk for obesity, diabetes, high blood pressure, and other serious chronic diseases.
- School meals are "rightsized." Based on their age, students are getting the right portions and now they will be getting more of some foods like fruits and vegetables.
- You have the power to encourage your children to build a healthy plate at school and home. Review the school menu with your kids and encourage them to try new foods, especially the healthy foods offered.
- Your child picks up all of your attitudes and behaviors – including your eating habits. Since kids love to copy what their parents do, they are likely to mimic your willingness to try new foods.

- Kids need to try new foods many times before they like them! Here are some helpful tips to take an active role in school meals and encourage your children to eat healthy foods:
 - Make time to join your child(ren) for lunch in the school cafeteria.
 - When your child gets home from school, ask what was served and what (s)he ate for lunch.
 - Eat meals with your child(ren) whenever possible. Let your child see you enjoying fruits, vegetables, and whole grains at meals and snacks.
 - Grocery shopping can teach your children about food and nutrition. Help your children make healthy choices.
 - Discuss where vegetables, fruits and grains, dairy and protein foods come from with your child.
 - Share the adventure and serve new foods offered in the school cafeteria at home.
- The School Day Just Got Healthier! Together we can make a difference and help our kids develop healthy habits for life.
